PERTINENT POINTS MADE IN THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S BRIEF.

Not Necessary to Bring Suit Against the Trust Itself-The Sale of Product.

The brief of the attorney general's department in the case brought to restrain the Indiana glass companies from joining the trusts was yesterday completed. The suit has been brought in Madison county by William F. Edwards, prosecuting attorney, on relation of the State. A demurrer was | DREW THEM FROM A HAT filed by the defendants and the brief yesterday completed is in reply to this demurrer. In the injunction suit the brief

"Counsel argues that this proceeding is brought against the wrong party; that the proceeding is brought against the individuals and not against the trust, the real offender. If the individual corporations are restrained from entering into a trust, there will be no trust. Hence, an attack upon the individual corporations is an attack upon the trust. Moreover, the trust, being a for-eign corporation, is not as available subject for an attack as a corporation organized under the laws of the State.

"Counsel also argue that if this action for an injunction should be maintained, then an injunction could be maintained against any corporation to restrain it from selling its product to anyone the court might see fit. This is not the case. This is not an action to restrain defendant from selling its product where and to whom it sees fit, but to restrain it from entering into an unlawful and oppressive combination, impervious to the public and inimical to the welfare of the Counsel next argue that the prosecuting attorney has not legal capacity to sue. The evil in this case sought to be restrained is a iblic one, in which all the citizens are interested, and the prosecutor, as the repre-sentative of the State, has the right to protect the interests of the citizens. Instances are common where the attorney general has brought such suits. If it is proper for the attorney general to bring such suits, then we can see no reason why the public prosecutor should not have authority to do so. Both represent the people.

THE PURCHASER'S DESCRIPTION. "Counsel next argue that the bill does not court is not, and under the pleadings cannot be, informed to whom defendant is sellstraint from sale is a very small part of the relief asked. It is asked to restrain defendant from entering an unlawful conspiracy and combination with parties unknown. Under the allegations of the complaint it is averred that defendant has entered into an agreement, and is consummating an agreement, which has for its purpose unlawful acts and acts that are for an unlawful purpose.

"Counsel next argue that the bill does not plead facts sufficient to inform this court that the combination defendant is entering into is a trust. We do not know what sort of combination would meet counsels' requirements of a trust, but it seems to us that if parties controlling the output of any particular commodity combined such comnation would constitute a trust.

"Again, counsel say that the bill does not allege whether the unlawful agreement entered into is in writing or in parol; that, hence, it must be presumed it is in parol; that, if it is in parol, then it would not be enforceable. It is a matter of no concern to this court whether it is in writing or in parol, so long as defendant is performing it. It is an unlawful agreement, and all the sign manuals and seals of Christendom would not make it enforceable at law. If defendant is proceeding to fulfill it, it is a proper subject of restraint. But counsel say that since the full text of the agreement is not pleaded the court cannot say whether or not the agreement is unlawful. The contract is not the basis of the action, and, nence, not properly a part of the pleading. The general substance, tenor and purpose of the agreement is pleaded. For the purpose of the demur-rer it is admitted by the defendant that such an agreement has been entered into for the purpose and illegal object of forming an illegal trust and combination and monopoly: that this purpose is to be effect-uated by this agreement, which has been entered into by a large number of similar firms and corporations to the end that the output and price of the commodity be con-trolled and competition stifled. The aliega-tions as to the organization of the trust corporation, the terms of defendants agreement with it and its purpose, certainly are full and complete enough to withstand a demurrer. It is not necessary to plead the

"Counsel next argue that the bill is bad because it does not allege that defendant is organized under the laws of this State. We can see no substance in this contention. It is doing business in this State, has a place of business here. If, as the bill alleges, defendant is loing or threatening to do an illegal act within the jurisdiction of this court this court can stay the act, whether it is a resident or foreign corporation. It would be preposterous to hold

THE ALLEGATIONS SPECIFIC. the argument that the demurrer should be sustained because the allegations of the illegal acts are in the alternative; that they have done or intend to do certain things, is met. The complaint is quoted almost in full and then the brief says, in part:

"There is nothing doubtful, alternative or indefinite about these allegations; they are against him. the demurrer these facts are admitted to be true. Do they not warrant the granting of the relief asked? It must be borne in mind that a corporation is a child of the State; the State gives it life, and the act that brings it into being also defines its powers and prescribes its duties and obligations to the State and the public. It is created for a definite purpose. If 't transcends those powers, violates those duties and obligations, and perverts its purpose, the State has the right to say that it shall no longer exist. Do the allegations of the bill set out such a state of facts as to show it has for-felted its charter? If the contracts and agreements it has entered into and is perming stifle competition, are in restraint of trade, and against the public good, then it has forfeited its charter rights.

idently of the character of the combination as tending to form a trust and monopoly, defendants by joining it did an act ultra vires in abuse of its powers and in perversion of its institution, and have incurred the statutory penalty of forfeiture of its corporate powers.

"The judgment asked in this case is cor-porate death to the defendants, but the principle that gives power to the State to take the life of a citizen for destroying his fellow-men gives power to the State to take the life of a corporation when it becomes an enemy to the power that gave it life and seeks to destroy its fellows, and it is the duty of the courts to enforce the law in the one case with as much impartiality and rigor as in the other. The interests of the public imperatively demand it in either case. And in this case, if defendants have shown an utter disregard for the rules of the power that gave them life, have asprerogatives and usurped privileges self-aggrandizement, have entered into combinations and alliances having for their monopolistic oppression, tyranny, restraint of trade and strangulation of competition, in utter disregard of the rights of others, then this court should decree their dissolution, drastic and extreme though

THE GRAND OPERA SEASON Preparations Have Begun for the Gran Company's Appearance.

Preparations have already been begun for field, Ill., where the interment will take the short season of grand opera to be given | place. here by the company from the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. The company that will appear in this city will be the largest and most complete organization that has ever been brought to this country. Mr. Maurice Grau sailed from Havre on the steamship La Normandie accompanied by Mmes. Calve, Adams, Olitzka, Bauermeis-MM. Salignac, Vanni, Dufriche, Devries, Pini-Corzi, Meux, and the members of the chorus and ballet. Zelie de Lussan, Edouard de Reszke, Pol Plancon, Claude Bonnard, Jacques Bars and Andreas Dippel followed a few days later, with Signor Mancinelli, the musical director. The entire company will have a full week's rehearsal at the Metropolitan Opera House before beginning its tour, so that the permance will reach the high standard it maintained last year in New York.

GLASS TRUST TEST CASE ago singers and audiences were still dithe Italian and the German-the French being accepted by both sides as allies. To being accepted by both sides as allies. To give German opera meant the exclusion of the Italian; to give Italian meant the exclusion of the German, excepting those who, like Gluck or Mozart, wrote more or less in the Italian style. To-day Mr. Grau is able to give Italian, French and German opera with one and the same company, and on an equal scale of excellence. This change has been brought about by the growing popularity of Wagner among opera singers. Impelled by enthusiasm for his art, the greatest vocalists of the French art, the greatest vocalists of the French and Italian schools have devoted their su-preme efforts to his operas within the last ten years, and to-day the majority of Mr. Grau's artists prove that one can be equally perfect in Rossini and Wagner. Nearly all the great singers who are members of the present company excel in two or three schools. The choice of an opera and artists for the performance in this city has not yet been made.

George W. Sloan, Andrew M. Sweeney, Charles W. Moores, Henry C. Sickels and Herman Bamberger were accorded first place, in the order named, on the ballots for school commissioners, to be voted for Yesterday morning, according to programme, Mayor Taggart, County Treasurer Schmidt and Controller Johnson met in the city hall and drew lots for position for the twenty-four candidates whose petitions had been filed with the mayor. The names were placed in one hat and numbers up to twenty-four were placed in another. Mayor Taggart drew them out, first the number and then the name to correspond. The first one called was that of A. A. Barnes, proprietor of the Udell works, in North Indianapolis, but instead of being placed as No. 1 the mayor drew out No. 18 and Mr. Barnes escribe the purchaser sufficiently; that this perintendent of Public Instruction Gesting THE BRIDGE AT AUCTION perintendent of Public Instruction Geeting came next, and, he, too, fell short of a position among the first five, being only two points above Mr. Barnes, George W. Shortly after the positions had been fixed Charles E. Hollenbeck announced that he would be compelled to withdraw his name. His candidacy was advocated by the joint committee from the Commercial Club and the Board of Trade, but he said he had given in the beginning a reluctant consent to the circulation of the petition, and had since then found that he could not serve. His name was not removed from the list, however. Later Mr. Hollenbeck concluded to be a candidate. The list was examined and the petitions looked into to see if they complied with the law, after which the three commissioners certified the results to the city clerk.

COMMISSIONERS WILL SELL CENTRAL AVENUE AFFAIR TO-MORROW.

Street-Car Company Will Put Up a Temporary Structure-Contractor's Limit.

To-morrow morning work will be commenced on the new bridge which the county proposes to build at Central avenue and Fall creek. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the old bridge will be disposed of on the spot, to the highest bidder. The structure will have to be moved before much headway can be made on the new bridge. It is the intention of the street car company to erect another bridge near the old one for use while the new bridge is being built. The company will probably begin work to-morrow. General Manager McGowan said last night that traffic would not be delayed on account of the removal of the present bridge.

Commissioner McGregor says the man who buys the old bridge must begin removing it the next day, as the contractors for the new stone structure have machinery and piling on the ground ready to begin extensive work Tuesday. Some of the stone is dressed and ready to ship. The bridge is to be completed in ninety days.

SALVATION ARMY'S WORK.

What It Has Done in the Last Year in America.

The annual harvest festival of the Salvation Army was commenced last night with a graphaphone and ice cream social at the army barracks, on Ohio street, near Pennstaff secretaries in charge of the children's rescue work in Chicago and the cities of the Northwest, attracted a crowd which tested the capacity of the hall. The graphophone programme, which consisted of musical selections, recitations and speeches, was well received, and with the sale of ice cream brought substantial aid to the funds of the army. The harvest festival, which is celebrated by the Army all over the country, is designed to furnish an occasion for raising funds for rescue work among women and children and maintaining lodging houses and restaurants for the homeless poor in the large cities.

During the last year in America the Army gained seventy thousand converts, largely from adverse materials. The record for the entire world was 235,662. During the year 1,400,000 lodgings were furnished to homeless people in this country, who were also given 1,100,000 meals. One thousand women were passed through the rescue and ready for inspection, all lines, 89c UP ARE FITTED AND GUARANhomes, and of these 850 were permanently reformed. In discussing this, Major Harris said the experience of the Army was that fully 75 per cent. of the fallen women brought in contact with the Army were re-Harvest services will be held all day to day. A HUSBAND'S ANGER.

He Resented the Visit of Mormon El ders to His Home.

For several years past the Mormon Church has had missionaries working in the Indiana field with more or less flattering results so far as the church is concerned, but not always with satisfactory results to the families of those converted. Recently the Mormons held a convention at Anderson and reported substantial gains in membership and influence in Indiana, and after the breaking up of the conference, several "elders" were sent to this city to, a home for children by the Board of Chilsecure new recruits. During a meeting held by two of the "elders" last night on the corner of Market and Pennsylvania streets, a riot was started, and it ended in the precipitate flight of the "elders."

The assault was made by a well-dressed and, apparently, cultured man, who, while refusing to give his name, told the reasons for his actions. He said the "elders" de voted their days to visiting the homes of families, in addition to spending the nights in street-corner talkings, and that yesterday one of them visited his wife and held up before her the beauties of Mormonism. The visit surprised the woman, who related the facts to her husband on his return home, together with some of the remarks of the "elder," which, according to th woman, were of a character calculated to pander to the baser passions of humanity. The man regarded it as a direct insult to monism and lost no time in "leading" and "upper-cutting" on the nearest one. One or two blows put the missionaries to flight. but the scene attracted the attention of over 100 people, who crowded around while the Mormons made their escape. The man whose wife was made the subject of the missionary work said he proposed to take the matter to the superintendent of police and make an effort to have the "elders" suppressed.

County Council Adjourns. The Marion County Council adjourned yesterday after finishing the business it was called to transact nearly three weeks ago. The board passed the ordinance authorizing the sale of the property formerly used as dren's Guardians. The property is situated on Prospect street. It cost the county $8,750. The council made a slight change in the appropriation ordinance before adjourning. The estimate of the Wayne township assessor of $1,000 for deputy hire, which had been reduced to $700, was put back to the original amount. Resolutions were adopted expressing appreciation of the work of President McCullough and thanking the county auditor and the County Commissioners for courteous treatment. Commissione Greer, in a brief speech to the council, said the members need have no fear that the appropriation was not large enough to meet the expenses of the county.

Many Colored Excursionists. The Lake Erie & Western Railroad's $ excursion to Chicago last night proved so pulled out of the Union Station. The excurTRACKS AT RURAL STREET.

The Work on the New Crossing Will Begin To-Morrow. At a conference held yesterday by Mayor

Taggart, the Board of Public Works and Superintendent Mansfield, of the Pennsylvania Railway Company, it was arranged to construct a crossing at Rural street where it intersects the Pennsylvania tracks. The railroad company will bear the expense. The work will begin on Monday. The railroad company will elevate its tracks and the street will be depressed sufficiently to make an opening under the tracks with eleven feet of head room. There will be a thirtyfoot roadway through the opening, with sidewalks on each side. It is expected the cost of the work will be about $25,000.

JAMES QUINN FINED.

Charged in Police Court with Influencing Witnesses.

Special Police Judge Reinhart rendered his decision yesterday in the case against James Quinn, fining him $10 and costs, for corruptly influencing witnesses in connection with the case of assault and battery upon Minnie Crawley, upon which he was discharged. Friday Quinn was fined by Judge Reinhart for conducting an immoral house. The two fines and two bills of costs perchance you do not have such garments, were stayed by the Indianapolis Brewing you should have. We make them in the most approved fashion. See us about it to-Company. Quinn was tried by Special morrow. Judge Reinhart because Judge Cox said he knew too well the character of the Nickel-

Constance, the beautiful maiden, struggles desperately in the water. "Save me!" she shricks. Harold, the brave youth, standing upon the shore, throws aside his coat. "Are you sinking for the third time?" he "Oh, dear! I forgot to count! How stupid of me!" cries Constance, in much confusion. Harold is as brave as a lion, truly, but he will scarcely risk violating what is perhaps the most cherished convention of romance.
